April showers bring May flowers. We are ready for those flowers! May 1st is also Mother Goose Day—who knew? In honor of nursery rhymes we will have many color pages for you to pick from.

Don't forget Mom on the 8th. To help you out we have flowers to make. We also have a wooden catchall tray to decorate. You choose what Mom would like best. Look at what other crafts are coming up during May!

Are you celebrating May 4? Or May 5? May 4 is the day many Star War Fans greet each other with "May the fourth be with you" & you, Baby Yoda!

On May 5, 1862 the Mexican Army defeated the French Empire in the Battle of Puebla. In the USA, Cinco de Mayo is a day one may recognize and celebrate Mexican-American Culture. Here in Wiscasset many of us will enjoy having a reason to eat delicious tacos. Yum.

HAPPY Memorial Day
HONORING ALL WHO SERVED

BOOK LOVE by Ms. Laurie

What I am reading:

Koda by Patricia Hermes. Koda, a young quarter-horse traveling on the Oregon Trail, may become a hero when his young mistress goes missing.

2 Margaret Wise Brown's books, A Home for a Bunny and The Big Red Barn. The first book is one of my very favorite spring stories and the second is in honor of one of our young patrons who really likes farms and animals. I'm still reading The Sisters Grimm by Michael Buckley. Volume Four! It is nonstop action!
